Our citizens, are determined to have a railroad communication with Milwaukee. They have got their dander up and are bound to put the thing flavourin. At a meeting of the Communication of the last Monday evening a resolution are approximately experience to the proposed of the communication of the several proposed of the communication of the communicati ton was adopted, calling upon our representatives in the Legislature to procure an amendment to the city charter, allowing the city to borrow $125,000, to aid in the construction of a milroad, and to subscribe to the stock of two or more plank reads leading in from the country.

The same paper furnishes the following gratifying information relative to the arrangements for daily steamboat communication with Gill's Landing on the Wolf River, and thence towards Ste-As not Point:

Our business men are anticipating unusually of times during the approaching season. There are indications of a largely increasing busing and our citizens are making proparations accordingly. We are informed that arrangements have been entered into with Messrs. Moore & Frigherald, owners of the steamers Poytong, Minacha and Barlow, by which these boats are to make daily trips between this place and Fond on the Berlin, and Gill's Landing as follows: the Loc. Berlin, and GMrs. Lancing, as honors: The Menasha leaves here in the morning for read du Lee, so as to connect with the Valley flidhoad going south and with the line of stoges in Sheboygan, thus enabling passengers to gotherough without delay. The Peulona and Bartou will leave here in the morning—the one for Gill's Landing, the other for Berlin.

FOR RIVER VALLEY R. R. BRANCH.-Some weeks since we made enquiries as to what is dowar among our railroad people to secure a connection, cas the Fox River Valley branch, with the Harrim Railroad at Burlington. Thus far we get no answer. Will our people read and ponder the tollowing, from the Beloit Journal !

The Fox Ricer Valley road has power to construct a branch from Burlington to Milwaukee.—That branch we have always looked upon as one which must aboost of necessity be constructed, whether the main—line is or not.—It is in the whether the nain line is or not.—It is in the power of Milwaukee to construct it if she will, and she either must do it, or lose all the trade of Southern Wisconsln. Passengers here-away can find a railroad route to Milwaukee via Racine and the Lake Shore road, but the lengthened distance is too far to permit Milwaukee to compete with Racine for freight.—If she wishes any portion of that, she must reach out after it over this branch. And she must hurry about the work, here. Refore a year hence the Racine road will be recooking here and it is already graded to Butturning here, and it is already graded to Bur-langton."

Judge Dunn opposed the substitute, on the ground that it would be discourteens to the Assembly to take up a bill which was pending before that House, and adopt it as a substitute to a bill originating in the Senate. POLICE COURT .-- February 21.

Look out for Snow Balls.-A man named Michael Shultz, was brought up for assault and battery upon a boy named F. A. Wheeler, by throwing a stick of wood and striking him on the temple with it. The evidence showed that the "Dutchman," as the boys termed him, was sawing wood for the Academy, and that a number of boys were engaged in snow-balling him. The man became irritated, took up a stick of wood and threw it at the boys who had been pelting him; the complainant turned round, at hearing some of the boys short "look out," when the stick struck him on the head, bruising him. This was the substance of the complainant's case. Is was shown that when the defendant threw the stick, he could not see the complainant, and nothing was shown that made it appear defendant had meant to hit the complainant. The court remarked that the only question is the case was, whether the blow on the complainant was intentionally inflicted or not the was unable to decide that it was intentional; had the defendant thrown a club into a crowd of boys, who had not been snow-balling him and had the abutments are being made. At the present struck one of them, he would have been clearly guilty of an assault and battery; but, in this case, the defendant had been attacked by a number of boys while peaceably engaged at his work, and been unlawfully used against him; in doing this he had struck the complainant, but he was una- sy. ble to say that it was done crimically there was a doubt of that, and the defendant must have the benefit of that doubt. The court further remarked, "I don't think the court can say too much in reference of this practice of throwing snow-balls industriminately at persons who are engaged peaceably in their business, and if parents will not teach their boys better-I shall not fail to punish them if brought before me for assault and battery. The case here that he saw the fire set, is not to be relied on, as is a natural consequence of such a practice. The defendant will be found not guilty," B. Paine for defendant-J, F. Smith for complatnant.

A can named John Toiby was brought down from jail by deputy sheriff Mitchell, on a charge of threatening to beat, wate and otherwise injure Mary Tolby his wife. The defendant had been n jail four days, without an examination. No ppearance on the part of the complainant. The defendant was discharged after being advised by that during the current fiscal year, the State lands he court not to get intoxicated again, or he would se punished severely if brought before him again.

Men who have seen it and are competent judges sny it is the best prospect that has been struck in that neighborhood. The other shaft is on another rango—has been sunk over eighty feet.

American Travel.

The late celebrated Mr. Clay, was a man of great resolution and considerable daring. He made that the following story to a friend of ours. Travelling, in early manthood, in a public conveyance in a South Eastern State, he found himself in the company of three other peasons, censisting of a young lady and gentleman, he bushand, and of an individual muffled up in a cloak, whose countenance was concealed, and who appeared to be indulging in a tete-a tete with Morpheus. Saddenly a hig brawny Kentuckian got into the coach smoking a cigar, and frowned finerely around, as much as to say, "I'm half horse, half alligater, the yaller flower of the forest, all brimstone but the head and ears, and that's aquafortic." In fact, he looked savege as a meet axe, and puffled forth huge volumes of smoke, without reference to the company within, especially of the lady, who mentiested certain timid aymptons of antoyrace. The entity, after some whispering, the gentleman with her, in the politest accents, requested the stranger not to smoke as much as I dam please, and all lashan't stop me, nohow. With that he looked shady of the lady, who mentiested certain timid aymptons of antoyrace. The entity after some whispering, the gentleman with her, in the politest accents, requested the stranger not to smoke as much as I dam please, and all lashan't stop me, nohow. With that he looked shady to be an objection to a quarrel, and that if it occurred it was likely to lead to a deadly struggle. The young man who had spoken to him, shrunk back and was silent. Clay telt his gallanty arased, He considered for a moment whether he should interfore; but experienced a natural reductance to draw upon himself the brutal violence of his gapatic adversary. In that lawless country, he would be a stranger and to draw upon himself the brutal violence of his gapatic adversary. In that lawless country, he know himself physically unequal in the content of the know himself physically unequal in the contents of the contents of the know himself physically unequal position, and the mantle was suffered to fall from it without effort or excitement.

The small but sinewy form of a man, plainly of dressed in a tightly buttoned frock coat, with nothing remarkable about his appearance, was seen, and a pair of bright grey eyes sought the fierce optics of the ferocious Kentuckian. Without work, this 'lay figure' put his hand under his collar at the back of his neck, and slowly and deliberately pulled forth a long extremely long, and glittoring knife from its sheath in that singular place. "Stranger," he said, "my name is Col. Jamos Bowie, and well known in Arkansas and Louisiana, and if you don't put that cigar out of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the control of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the window in a quarter of a minute of the control of the window in a quarter of the control of the control of the window in a quarter of the control of the control of the window in a quarter of the control of the James Bowie, and well known in Arkansas and Louisians, and if you don't put that ciger out of the window in a quarter of a minute, I'll put this knife through your bowels as sure as death."—Clay said he never forgot in after life the expression of the Colonel's eyes at that moment. The predominant impression made upon him, was the certainty of the threat being fulfilled, and apparationally the same conviction exclusible same conviction exclusible same conviction exclusible same conviction exclusions. certainty of the inreat being fulfilled, and apparenlly the same conviction ere long impressed itself upon the offender. During two or three seconds his eyes met those of Bowie. He was the weaker, and he qualled. With a curse, he tore the eigar from between his teeth, and threw it scowling, but downcast, out of the coach window. Upon this, Bowie as deliberately replaced his long knife, in its eccentric hidiag-place, and without saying a word to any one else, or even vouchsafing a glance at any one, refolded his closk around him, and did not utter another syllable to the end of the journey.—New Quarterly Review, for January.

Gitad—the oil of consolation, peace and perfect restoration.

The more fully developed is the disease the more salutary and powerful the effects of this Elixir, at once destroying the appetite for spirits, and restoring the tone of the stomach to as healthy an action as it was before drinking a drop of ardent spirits; and when intemperance has assumed this diseased item, reason is measurably delironed, the will to a certain extent becomes ungovernable, until often, alast many lawe passed the bounds of soher restraint, and though they may desire, in their soher moments, to abandon the use of that which is so rapidly proving their bane, they cannot, unaided, and no aid has ever been tendered such, with success, until the discovery of Dr. Urban's never failing Anti-Bacchinadhan Elixer; since which time none are left without excuse, as the means measurey to destroy the tasts, and again enthrone reason, bringing the will introperfect subjection, by extracting the poisonous state, and translation of the adder, are placed within every nair's reach: those, therefore, who become after this the grave of the

The beauty of this medicine is, that it stops the Chill in TWENTY MIN-UTES, or less, and the patient will be entirely clear from Fever after the Chill, which is not the case when any other medicine is used. It has supersected all other prepara-tions wherever it has been introduced.
